

"The Words Forgotten"

Swimming in the ocean
 , but nobody listens
When a shark devours me alive
 It's like yelling underwater

To someone above the surface
Like my mouth duct taped shut
And the only thing that screaming does
 Is waste my breathe

Cause there is no breathing underwater
 There is no one that listens
 No one that bats an eye
 Open an ear to feel

The internal void of my voice
The raspy curls of the words
The words that are meaningless to people
The oblivious buzz in their ears

Turning the words
That burn the souls of others
And making the water
Soft enough to bring hope

Hard enough to murder
 Turn dreams to ash
 Freeze my fingertips

So writing and speaking are both not an option.
